November Newsletter

Welcome and Welcome back!

I am very happy to start teaching again! To my previous students- thank you for your patience through my maternity leave. Here's a picture of my little boy; though you'll get to meet him in person soon if you haven't already. And to my new students- I'm so excited to have you joining us!

November Schedule:

5th-8th: Private lessons, tuition due
12-15th: Private lessons
19th-22nd: Private lessons
26th-29th: No lessons

December Schedule:

3rd: Group lessons, tuition due
10th-13th: Private lessons
17th-20th: Private lessons
21st-Jan 2nd: No lessons

Please notice: No Group lessons in November. And because there will only be three lessons instead of four each of the next two months December will be half tuition!

Tuition Payments:

I am finally catching up to the technology of today (and admittedly some of you know I'm not that great at depositing checks very promptly)! Tuition can now be paid any of the following ways:

- By check made payable to Jessica Young
- AFCU transfer
- Venmo
- Paypal

New Studio:

I have moved my piano downstairs! We've spent most of this year working on finishing our basement. I am excited to be able to move my teaching space down there where there is more room! When you come to lessons, please enter through the basement door (in the backyard and down the stairs). No need to knock, just come on in! Also, I will be trying much harder this year to end lessons on time, so please make every effort you can to be on time! Thanks.
